THE EXECUTION ENGINE THESIS

AI is collapsing the cost of creative strategy. Briefs, renders, concept decks — AI can produce all of it. What AI cannot do is build the thing. RedPeg's durable advantage lives in the gap between the brief and the real world.

As AI commoditizes the front end of experiential marketing, the demand for flawless physical execution increases. More briefs get greenlit. More activations get funded. More brands need someone who can actually make it real — on time, on spec, without drama. That bottleneck shifts from "who has the best idea" to "who can build it." We are the answer to that question.

PRIMARY POSITIONING LINE

AI THINKS IT.
WE BUILD IT.

ALTERNATE / CLIENT-FACING

YOU ENVISION IT.
WE BUILD IT.

CORE MESSAGE

WHERE IDEAS BECOME REAL.

SUPPORTING TAGLINE

"The last mile of every experience is still human."

This is not an anti-AI position. It is a precise claim on what AI cannot replace. We acknowledge AI's strengths and stake our authority on execution — the irreplaceable human infrastructure of production, logistics, fabrication, permitting, staffing, and on-site delivery. We lead with operational capability. Creative and strategic thinking happen inside every project we deliver; they make the execution better. But the reason to hire RedPeg is that the thing gets built.

WHO WE ARE

RedPeg is a 30-year-old independent production and experience agency headquartered in Alexandria, VA. We are the execution layer between a brand's vision and the real-world experience that makes it real.

Founded in 1995, we have never been acquired by a holding company. That independence is structural: it means faster decisions, leaner overhead, and a team where every senior person is actually working on your project. At 37 people, we have eliminated the overhead that doesn't add value. What remains is a concentrated team of experienced producers, strategists, and creative thinkers who have built large-scale experiences for some of the world's most demanding brands.

Our track record is what sets us apart. We have produced 80,000-person gaming festivals, run multi-year Fortune 100 leadership programs across dozens of cohorts, managed 87-property global loyalty activations, and built music partnership programs that generated 3B+ earned media impressions. Our in-house music subsidiary, Deep Cuts Entertainment, brings 60+ years of combined music industry expertise to brand partnerships and artist tour experiences — making us the only experiential agency that can genuinely claim music as a core competency, not a service offering.

We are members of the Dawn network of independent agencies. We are AI-fluent. We use generative tools to accelerate the front end of every project. But the product we sell is the physical execution — the thing that exists in the real world after the brief is written and the renders are approved. That is where we live, and that is what we are best at.

HOW WE SOUND

RedPeg speaks with the authority of a senior producer who loves what they do. Confident without being arrogant. Direct without being cold. We use specific numbers because vague claims are for agencies that don't have real proof.

ATTRIBUTE	SOUNDS LIKE	NEVER SOUNDS LIKE
CONFIDENT	✓ "We've produced 80,000-person festivals. We know what we're doing."	✗ "We'd love the opportunity to potentially explore..."
DIRECT	✓ "Here's what we do, here's what it costs, here's who it's right for."	✗ "We offer a full suite of customizable experiential marketing solutions..."
SPECIFIC	✓ "87 properties. 500K new enrollments. 3B impressions. One campaign."	✗ "We've delivered measurable results for leading global brands."
WARM	✓ "Let's talk about your event. Tell us the goal and we'll tell you what it takes to build it."	✗ Cold, transactional, jargon-heavy, or overly formal.

EXPERT

✓ "That permit timeline is aggressive. Here's how we've handled it before..."

✗ "Whatever you need, we can make it happen!"
(vendor energy)

The rule of thumb: speak the way a trusted senior producer would speak to a client they respect. We educate, we advise, we push back when the brief is wrong — because that's what an expert does. We do not perform enthusiasm. We demonstrate capability.

HOW TO INTRODUCE REDPEG

Five versions. Use them contextually based on your audience. Each uses a Problem → Proof → Outcome structure without the labels. All are designed to be speakable — not read from a card.

VERSION 01 — THE POSITIONING PITCH (GENERAL / BROADEST USE)

AI has made it faster than ever to generate a brief, a concept, a render. The part it still can't do is build the thing. RedPeg is where that brief becomes a real experience — 80,000-person festivals, global loyalty programs across 87 properties, artist tour VIP experiences that move markets. We've been doing the hard part since 1995. The last mile of every experience is still human, and this is ours.

VERSION 02 — THE CLIENT PAIN PITCH (FOR BD CONVERSATIONS)

Most brands can generate a concept. The breakdown happens in translation — concept to production doc, production doc to vendor package, vendor package to flawless on-site execution. That gap is where activations fail. RedPeg lives in that gap. We take whatever you've got — an AI render, an internal deck, a brief from another agency — and build it into a physical experience that works. We've done it at 80,000-person scale. We can do it at yours.

VERSION 03 — THE MUSIC PITCH (DEEP CUTS / MUSIC PARTNERSHIP CONTEXT)

Most brands want a music play but don't have the infrastructure to actually pull it off. We have an in-house music subsidiary — Deep Cuts Entertainment — with over 60 years of combined music industry expertise. We're talent-agnostic, which means we negotiate the best deal for your brand, not the easiest deal for us. Marriott Bonvoy, Yuengling, Imagine Dragons, Taylor Swift — we've built programs that generate billions of impressions. Music is not a service line for us. It's a genuine specialization.

VERSION 04 — THE B2E / INTERNAL EVENTS PITCH

Your employees are your most important audience. Internal conferences, leadership programs, culture events — these moments shape how your people feel about where they work. Most companies underinvest in the production layer and overpay for the confusion that follows. RedPeg designs and produces internal brand experiences for Fortune 100 companies. You bring the content. We build everything else — the environment, the logistics, the staffing, the experience itself.

VERSION 05 — THE FAST PITCH (30 SECONDS, ANY ROOM)

RedPeg is an independent production agency. Thirty years, 37 people, no holding company. We build large-scale brand experiences — festivals, global loyalty programs, music partnerships, internal corporate events. We've produced work for Marriott, USAA, Meta, Capital One. When a brand has a vision and needs someone to actually build it, that's us.

BD TALKING POINTS

We are not a vendor. We are an expert firm with a defined point of view on how we work, who we work with, and what we charge. That posture starts in the first conversation.

ON WHY REDPEG WINS

"We've been doing this for 30 years without a holding company telling us how to do it. That means faster decisions, leaner overhead, and your account is run by people who actually know how to build things — not account managers managing other account managers. The proof is in our track record, not our pitch deck."

ON FIT (WHO WE WORK WITH)

"We work best with brands that have a clear activation goal and the budget to do it properly. Our minimum engagement is $1M in annual fees. That's not about exclusivity — it's about ensuring we can put the right team on your work and deliver what we're promising."

ON AI AND OUR POSITIONING

"We use AI tools — for concepting, visualization, brief development, planning. We're more efficient because of them. But the product we sell is physical execution. AI can't pull a permit, manage a 200-person staff call, or ensure 80,000 people have a safe, memorable experience. That's still us."

ON INDEPENDENT VS. HOLDING COMPANY

"When you hire a holding company agency, you're paying for their network overhead, their margin targets, and their inability to say no to the wrong work. We are independent. That means we say no when the work isn't right for us — and yes when it is. Our close rate on right-fit clients is high because we qualify early."

ON STRATEGY & DIAGNOSTICS

"We don't give away strategy. If you need us to diagnose your activation challenge — map the gaps, assess the brand tension, build the creative framework — that's a paid engagement. We've codified it into a three-phase Experiential Diagnostic Framework starting at $50K. Experts always diagnose before they prescribe."

ON PRICING

"We price on outcomes, not hours. You won't get a rate card from us. You'll get a flat fee tied to what we're delivering and what it's worth to you to have it executed without failure. Our track record justifies a premium, and we're not interested in low-margin work that undermines that track record."

SAY THIS. NOT THAT.

The words we choose signal whether we're an expert firm or a vendor. This is a filter for all written and verbal communication.

SAY THIS

"Where ideas become real."

"We build it."

"We produce experiences at any scale."

"Our track record speaks for itself."

"Here's what this requires to do it right."

"We're a good fit if..."

"That starts with a paid diagnostic."

"Fiercely independent since 1995."

"The last mile is still human."

"Let's talk about fit first."

CONTENT & SOCIAL VOICE

RedPeg's social presence must signal expert authority, not agency hustle. The voice is that of experienced practitioners, not a brand. Content is organized by author and expertise — not topic or trend.

The goal of every piece of content: demonstrate that RedPeg knows things that no AI can tell you and no holding company agency will admit. Production secrets. Permitting realities. Staffing logic. Music industry deal structures. The insider knowledge that only comes from decades of actually building things.

FROM THE PRODUCERS

BILLY FREEMAN, FRANK
BLACKMORE, LAUREN LESHNER,
JACLYN SMITH

Load-in war stories, gear guides, permitting tips, production logistics. The stuff that only someone who has actually worked a festival knows. Raw, specific, useful.

"Here's why your festival load-in is going to take 3 hours longer than your timeline says — and how we plan around it."

AI + EXECUTION

RYAN — VP CREATIVE & INNOVATION

Honest takes on where AI accelerates our work and where it doesn't. Practical, tool-specific, no hype. The gap between an AI render and a buildable fabrication spec — and how we bridge it.

"AI generated this render in 4 minutes. Here's what it cost and took to actually build it."

DEEP CUTS SESSIONS

KRISTIN KIDMAN — SVP GLOBAL PARTNERSHIPS

THE NUMBERS

MATT SINCAGLIA — VP BRAND
STRATEGY & ANALYTICS

Music partnership strategy, artist tour mechanics, brand-music integration playbooks. The deals, the structure, the mistakes brands make — from someone who has negotiated them.

"Why 'talent-agnostic' is the most important phrase in a music partnership brief."

Experiential ROI, measurement frameworks, attribution models. Proving that live experiences move real business metrics. The data side of activation that clients always ask for and agencies rarely provide.

"500,000 new loyalty program enrollments from one campaign. Here's how we measured it."

Platform guidance: LinkedIn is the primary channel — written content, case study highlights, data posts. Instagram carries production photography and behind-the-scenes work. LinkedIn voice is direct and authoritative. Instagram voice is visual-first with minimal copy. All channels use the same proof points and language rules. Zero trend-chasing. Zero corporate cheerleading. All signal, no noise.

THE VISUAL SYSTEM

The palette is cream-dominant with red as an accent and black for weight. The system is bold, typographic, and confident — not decorative. Every design decision reinforces the execution-first positioning.

REDPEG.

DISPLAY — ANTON (WEB) / GARAGE GOTHIC (TARGET BRAND FONT, PENDING LICENSE)

Where ideas become real. The last mile of every experience is still human. We build it.

BODY — OUTFIT (WEB) / GILROY (TARGET BRAND FONT, PENDING LICENSE)

TYPOGRAPHY RULES

Display type (Anton/Garage Gothic) is used for headlines, callouts, and numbers. Always uppercase. Always on cream or black — never on a competing color.

Red (#D42030) is an accent, not a background. Use it for emphasis: a single word, a line, a number, a border. When everything is red, nothing is.

Photography leads with production reality — fabrication details, real site moments, load-in footage, backstage at festivals. It should look earned, not styled. Testimonials and case study quotes should emphasize reliability ("they delivered," "nothing went wrong," "flawless") over creativity.

OUR COMMITMENTS

These are not aspirational values. They are operating decisions, grounded in financial reality and the Win Without Pitching model, that govern how we show up in the market and how we run the business.

01

WE WILL SPECIALIZE

Three lanes. Not everything. Generalists compete on price. Specialists command it.

02

WE WILL DIAGNOSE BEFORE WE PRESCRIBE

No free strategy. Paid diagnostics start at $50K. Thinking is the product.

03

WE WILL BE SELECTIVE

Minimum $1M annual engagement. We protect the team by protecting the work.

04

WE WILL NOT PITCH FOR FREE

Every unsolicited concept deck costs us. We lead with conversations, not proposals.

05

WE WILL CHARGE MORE

Price is a brand signal. Cheap means forgettable. Our floor is $155/hr. No exceptions.

06

WE WILL ADDRESS MONEY EARLY

Budget conversations happen on day one. Not after the concept is in the room.

07

WE WILL SAY NO MORE OFTEN

Every wrong-fit yes is a right-fit no. A decline is not a failure. It's a decision.

08

WE WILL NOT WORK AT A LOSS

No more write-downs without documentation. Every scope change is a change order.

09

WE WILL HOLD OUR HEADS HIGH

Clients buy confidence. We own our authority. 30 years. No holding company. No apologies.
